

COMMON LABORERS AT COLONY STRIKE

175 WALKED OFF JOBS WEDNESDAY DEMANDING 37½ CENTS AN HOUR.

CONTRACTORS REFUSE RAISE

Men Have Organized and Will Endeavor to Keep All Strike-Breakers Out.

Between 175 and 200 common laborers quit work Wednesday afternoon at the state epileptic colony and demanded an increase in wages from 30 to 37½ cents per hour. Wm. Allen & Sons, the largest contractors, refused to recognize the strikers, as did H. B. Krauel and Logan & Gaertz. A conference was arranged for today between the bosses and a committee of laborers, at which time a settlement may be reached.

The trouble started some time ago when several meetings were called in the old college building and a union was formed. Yesterday at noon the strikers began laying off and at 2 o'clock they had a sufficiently large body to force those who did not want to quit, to leave their work, and in cases, it is said, violence was resorted to. A contracting firm from Rockford which hires only a few men, agreed to pay the sum the men asked immediately and the men went back to work.

Held Meeting.

Monday night there was a spirited meeting in the college building when about 75 new members were taken into the union and given their cards. A committee was appointed to watch for strike breakers who might come into town and a collection was taken up to provide for taxis, etc., for the suppression of strike breakers. Measures were also taken to deal with those still on the job who did not quit when the strike was called. The strikers are determined to get their money. The contractors believe $3.37½ per day is too much for common labor. The strikers maintain that every laborer in and east of Chicago is getting $3.50 or over per day and because this is state work they are entitled to that much also.

Hughes Proves Democrats Have Prostituted Government Service

St. Paul, Aug. 9—Charles Evans Hughes has an Ananias club of his own. He established the club here today and Secretary of Commerce Redfield of President Wilson's cabinet is the first charter member. Confronted with a telegram from Secretary Redfield demanding that his charge made in the Detroit speech, that the government service has been prostituted, especially in the census bureau, he withdrew. Mr. Hughes not only refused to retract, but proved his charge to his own satisfaction and he believes to the satisfaction of the public.

"Fired," Durand Says.

E. Dana Durand, former Director of the Census, is out tonight with a formal statement not only supporting Mr. Hughes in his statement, but charging that Secretary Redfield himself broke the news to him that the administration wanted his job. Durand says over his signature that his resignation was forced.

The Durand statement raises squarely the question of veracity as between Secretary Redfield and himself. Durand is now a professor in the University of Minnesota.

Scathes Administration.

After reading the Durand letter Mr. Hughes launched into a scathing denunciation of the Wilson administration, not only rectifying his charges made heretofore but directly accusing the powers that be at Washington with having willfully prostituted the public service of this country by turning out expert political servants and putting political favorites in their places.

He cried shame upon them and brought into play all his powers of eloquence, together with the pledge that if elected president not a single unfit or incompetent man would get a political appointment regardless of his standing in the party councils.

CATCH WOMAN WHO LEAPED FROM TRAIN

MRS. ROSA KARBIA, WOULD-BE TRAIN WRECKER, CAPTURED BY THE POLICE.

CROSSED CLINTON R. R. BRIDGE

Clinton, Ia., Aug. 10—Mrs. Rosa Karbia, arrested in Chicago charged with attempting to wreck a Northwestern train at Lisbon June 7, and who leaped through the window of a fast Northwestern train here last night when she was en route to Cedar Rapids for trial, was captured this afternoon in the "jungle" a dense wood on the Illinois side of the Mississippi river.

Shoeless, she had walked the ties across the railroad bridge. Her capture followed an all night and day search. Despite the fact that searchers last night found her blood-soaked shoes, she appeared to have suffered only a few minor injuries in leaping from the speeding train.

Officer W. H. Cleary of the Cedar Rapids police force left with her this afternoon for Cedar Rapids.

ONLY TWO STATES SPEND MORE THAN ILL.

SOME INTERESTING FIGURES SHOWING COST OF GOVERNMENT

PER CAPITA COST IS $2.21

Many States With Larger Population Have Larger Cost for Each Citizen

Springfield, Ill., August 10—Figures showing the cost of government in Illinois compared with other states have been compiled by the Illinois Legislative Reference Bureau, under the direction of its secretary, Finley F. Bell.

According to this compilation, only two states in the union spend more for state government than Illinois. These are New York and Pennsylvania.

New York's appropriation last year for the biennium amounted to $89,019,113. Pennsylvania's were $65,464,852. Illinois appropriated $46,290,660. Ohio with an appropriation of $33,408,599 comes next after Illinois and Wisconsin with an appropriation of $30,466,216 is next.

Many state governments, however, have a larger per capita cost than Illinois where the per capita was only $2.21. In Nevada the per capita cost was $10.48, in California $7.98, in Idaho $7.81, in Massachusetts $7.02, in Minnesota and Montana $6.66, in New York $6.93, in Rhode Island $6.32, in Utah $6.09, in Vermont $6.51, and in many other states almost as much.

Six other states spend as little per capita as Illinois, according to Mr. Bell's figures, and the bureau of taxation is about as heavy in these states or heavier, because they do not enjoy the income from state departments that Illinois does. These six states are Arkansas, Georgia, North Carolina, Oklahoma, South Carolina, and Tennessee.

Illinois also ranks second in the amount appropriated for agricultural departments, having appropriated $2,004,495 for the biennium as compared with $3,638,607 appropriated by New York. In the amount appropriated for charities it is again exceeded only by New York. For this purpose Illinois appropriated $11,956,981, against New York's $13,906,628.

In the amount spent for educational purposes this state ranks second with a total appropriation of $15,031,969 for the purpose for the biennium. Pennsylvania alone exceeds this with an appropriation of $19,503,769.

In its good roads appropriation, however, the state falls short. Only $3,017,790 was appropriated for the biennium as compared with $23,492,568 appropriated by New York; $9,293,000 by Pennsylvania; $1,195,895 by Maryland; $6,379,927 by Washington; $6,175,000 by Ohio; and $3,111,020 by Wisconsin.

The total appropriations for the biennium period of 1915-16 is $16,349,326.17.

BURTON SWARTZ OF 'PALMYRA IS DEAD

PASSED AWAY SUDDENLY AT HIS LATE HOME THERE WEDNESDAY

FUNERAL AT 2 P. M. FRIDAY

In the passing away of a good man and honored citizen, a great loss is felt by the community in which he lives. Such a loss is now sustained in the death of Burton Swartz of Palmyra, which occurred Wednesday. Mr. Swartz had been in poor health for a year or more although going about his accustomed activities. On Tuesday morning he had an acute attack of heart trouble which has been the cause of all his ailments. At three o'clock, Wednesday afternoon, the summons came suddenly and he passed almost painlessly out of life into the home that is eternal.

Mr. Swartz was born in Palmyra, July 20, 1863, having just passed his 53d birthday. He was married on February 5, 1889, to Ella McCune, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCune near Dixon. He leaves to mourn his loss a wife and five children; Glenn, who is married and lives on a farm near home; Keith, Harley, Earnest and Donald at home. Also a father and three sisters, Moses Swartz of Dixon. Mrs. Gus Demorest of Palmyra and Misses Carrie and Bertha.

Mr. Swartz' life has always been spent in Palmyra where he has been actively engaged in farming. He was endowed with remarkable energy which was extended to the full limit of his strength. Through a life of continued honest industry, conscientious integrity and good business judgment he has worked himself into a substantial competency among the solid men of his township.

He was an accommodating neighbor and a thoroughly upright citizen always helpfully interested in the religious as well as the material progress of his community.

Mr. Swartz was a consistent member of the Dixon M. E. church, although his home church in Palmyra always claimed his first attention.

To the filial devotion of her who is left to mourn this great sorrow, we can only quote, "I cannot and I will not say that he is dead. He is just away. With a cheery smile and a wave of the hand, he has wandered into an unknown land."

The funeral will be held Friday at 2 o'clock at his late home in Palmyra, Rev. T. C. Lumsden, pastor of the Methodist church officiating and with burial in the Palmyra cemetery.

FLORIDA.

Florida is a vast expanse of water, sand and climate, which sticks out about 400 miles into the ocean at the southeast corner of the nation, and is as hard to dodge as a sore thumb. For many years it was the vermiform appendix of the United States. No particular use for it was known, and the "feminine" Indians kept it in a constant state of inflammation. It is now being extensively cultivated, however, and is growing faster than any other southern state, though goodness knows it needs to.

Florida was discovered by Ponce de Leon almost 400 years ago and immediately became famous for its wonderful climate. Ever since then people have been going to Florida to enjoy the climate and coming back to enjoy society. This shows Florida's simplicity. In California the man who arrives to enjoy the climate is treated so hospitably that he never saves money enough to come back.

However, in the past few years a few great hotels have been built in Florida, and it is now possible to go down there swelled all out of shape with money and be successfully treated for the affliction in a very few weeks.

Florida is divided equally into timber, swamps and orange groves. It contains the Everglades, the greatest swamp in America. It is so large that the agricultural department almost got mired in it. It also contains the only sea railroad in the world, running to Key West over 100 miles of water and keys. The Florida key is a peculiar one, made out of coral, and is almost as big as an old-fashioned New England house key.

Florida ships oranges, grapefruit, alligators and cigars to the world. If it were not for Florida mankind would be able to swear off smoking. In fact, this would be almost necessary. Florida also contains the oldest city in the United States—St. Augustine—which is one of the celebrated sleeping beauties. The metropolis of the state is Jacksonville, which has grown out of general stores into skyscrapers in the last ten years. The capital is Tallahassee, of which no more is known.

Florida is now very prosperous. Buying Florida land is a national diversion and selling Florida land is one of the surest roads to wealth.

DR. BAKER OUT FOR LEE COUNTY CORONER

AFTER NOMINATION ON FRANKLIN GROVE PHYSICIAN PUBLICAN TICKET.

IS PRESIDENT OF BOARD

Franklin Grove has presented a very worthy candidate for county coroner and as the town has not been represented of late by any important office his friends think it would seem only fair to have some distribution of these official favors.

In a brief interview with Dr. Baker a friend obtained only a few facts regarding his professional, social and business career, for the doctor's modesty is only exceeded by his good looks, and so he started out with the positive statement which is characteristic of the man: "O, there isn't much to say and I wouldn't care for any particular sea-on. My friends and acquaintances in the county I think know me well enough to believe that if elected to the office of coroner I will fulfill the duties of the office to the best of my ability, and that's about all anyone can do. Many of my friends live in Lee county. I am proud of them and of the old county as well and whether elected or not I shall stay, last and always, maintain interest in the welfare of the county."

Dr. Frank M. Baker, candidate for coroner on the republican ticket at the primaries September 13, 1916, is a native of Kahoka, Mo., where he was born Nov. 10, 1867. In 1871 he came with his parents to Amboy, Illinois, and has resided in the county ever since.

Graduated from Rush Medical College, 1892, with honors. Began his professional career in Amboy, where he practiced one and one-half years, removing to Franklin Grove in January, 1884, and this has been his chosen field for professional and other activities from that time.

Dr. Baker was married February 1, 1893, to Anna Drusilla Dysart, eldest daughter of the late Samuel Dysart. The family consists of three children; one son and two daughters.

Dr. Baker has served as member of the village board for the past eight years, and president of the board for the past four years. During the period in which the doctor has served in official capacity there have been many public improvements, the commercial interests have materially advanced and today Franklin Grove is one of the cleanest and most progressive little towns in Northern Illinois.

Dr. Baker's professional ability and clean-cut business methods thoroughly qualify him for the county office and if elected he will give capable and efficient service.

PLATINUM FOUND IN WELL IN OGLE FARM

SAM RUBENSTEIN MAY HAVE AN IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.

While drilling a well on a farm in Ogle county a few months ago Sam Rubenstein of this city found a queer-looking mineral which he thought might be gold, which he sent to a Chicago chemist for assay. The chemist returned it with the assurance that it was not gold but said it might be some valuable material, possibly platinum. Mr. Rubenstein then sent it to a Washington, D. C., chemist, who returned it with the statement that it was pure platinum. Mr. Rubenstein is contemplating mining the district and has an option on the farm where the platinum is located. If he decides to mine the material he will incorporate a company for the purpose. A present platinum is valued at about $100 an ounce and is a great deal more valuable than gold because of its scarcity.

PRINCESS THEATRE

Tonight the Princess theatre will show the fourth chapter of "The Secret of the Submarine." In this chapter the rapid fire of electrifying adventures fairly staggers the onlooker. Brilliant photography and great settings bring out with a big "punch" the bitter clash of the foreign spies and the Americans, climaxed with a tremendous bomb explosion. Thomas Mattered and Junia Hansen act with remarkable power; triumph constantly; show wonderful realism. These are supreme film successes.

Also Margaret Gibson will appear in "A Siren of the Jungle." How love, the greatest healer, reformer and purifier in the universe, entered the fickle heart of the coquette of the Transvaal and molded her into a noble woman, is the awe-inspiring theme, cleverly handled by Theodosia Harris, author of A Siren of the Jungle, a product of the Horsesley-Mutual studios.

The drama is a series of startling climax which are effectively presented through the efforts of Director Charles Swickard. Harish Ingraham makes his debut in Horsesley-Mutual photoplays in this production, giving a very acceptable performance of Jim Langdon, the man who arouses the heart of Vida to an appreciation of the greatest blessing life offers.

"The Politickers," a Falstaff comedy, will end this excellent bill of photoplays.

READ THE TELEGRAPH

Almost every middle aged woman is set in her ways and opinions, but you can't get her to admit it.

As a matter of fact there's very little common sense in the world—most of it is uncommon.

There are times when even the parson imagines there is no earthly hope for the choir.

A female diplomat is a woman who can keep a hired girl for six consecutive weeks.

When a man is ill he seldom has a nightshirt pretty enough to receive callers in.

Before raising the dust with a touring car it is necessary to raise the "dust" for one.

Luncheon Bread

For the school box luncheon make bread which will be very different from the usual bread and a change from wheat bread. Take enough dough for one loaf; work it down and add one tablespoonful lard, one half cup of English walnuts and one cup cleaned raisins, floured. Work it together until all the ingredients are well mixed; set aside to rise and bake the usual length of time. Cut when cold. Spread thin slices with butter and currant or grape jelly.

eral Anthony Wayne as a result of his

Northwest in the battle of Fallen Timbers.

GREATEST BLOW
IS HIT BY ITALY

Goritz, Austrian Stronghold, Surrenders to Latins.

10,000 ARE MADE PRISONERS

Victory Opens Way to Trieste—Vienna Also Claimed to Be Peril—All Italy Jubilant—Stronghold Had Held Up Italian Advance Fourteen Months.

London, Aug. 10.—The great Austrian stronghold of Goritz, which for fourteen months has blocked an Italian invasion of Austria from the west, has fallen before the victorious Italian armies.

"We captured Goritz Wednesday morning, taking 10,000 prisoners," said an official statement from the Rome war office.

Italian troops crossed the Isonzo in the vicinity of Goritz and consolidated the farther bank, the war office announced earlier in the day. Occupation of the heights west of Goritz has been completed. Italian cavalry is pursuing the Austrians beyond the river.

Citadel Taken by Storm.

The Italians are believed to have stormed the citadel city Tuesday night or early Wednesday, only a few hours after they had battered their way to victory at the Goritz bridgehead and had captured Monte San Michele, overlooking Goritz from the south.

Ten thousand Austrian prisoners, in addition to a similar number taken Tuesday, were taken, according to reports reaching London.

News of the Italian stroke, the greatest single victory for the allies since the triple offensive against the central empires began, was received here an hour after official word came from Petrograd of another striking Russian victory in Galicia.

All Defensive Works Fall.

Paris, Aug. 10.—A Havas dispatch from Rome says the Italian flag now flies over the defenses of Goritz. After three days of violent fighting, in which the cavalry was finally brought up to re-enforce the infantry, all the defensive works of the city which had resisted the advance of the Italians fell into their hands.

The success of the Italians has created an immense impression throughout the country. Rome, Florence, Bologna and Milan are decked with flags and demonstrations are being held by great throngs.

The offensive against Goritz had been planned for the spring, but was delayed by the Austrian attack in the Trentino region. Its prosecution now is part of the steady pressure which the entente allies are exerting on various fronts and the taking of the defenses of Goritz is regarded in Rome, the dispatch says, as merely preliminary to an extensive movement against the Austrian eastern wing, which some observers believe may eventually prove a serious menace to Vienna.

Underground Passage Used.

The Rome dispatch says the Italian artillery dislodged the Austrians after which Italian infantry rushed two successive Austrian lines of defense. Italian re-enforcements were poured in steadily from an underground passage which had been dug to within sixty feet of the Austrian first line.

The Italian infantry advanced so rapidly that the Austrian artillery continued to shell positions from which the Italians had advanced some time before.

One of the surprises of the attack was the use made by the Italians of a new instrument by which large bombs throw wire entanglements and pulverized trenches, opening breaches through which infantry and cavalry were able to pass freely.

WORKING WITH ALIENS

New York Leads in Movement to Americanize Immigrants.

Uncle Sam's Educational Experts Are Co-Operating in Work—Urge
Other States to Follow Example.

Uncle Sam is taking a deep interest in the efforts that are being made by the state of New York to "Americanize" the hundreds of thousands of immigrants that enter the United States through the port of New York. The bureau of education of the department of the interior calls attention to the work that is being done in New York and suggests that the example set by the Empire state could well be followed by other immigration states.

In 1910 there were 597,000 foreign born whites unable to speak English in New York and 362,000 who could not read or write in any language.

The New York state department of education has begun a statewide campaign to abolish these disabilities. Its program covered the following procedure: First, a careful survey of the immigrant education situation; second, establishment of training courses to prepare teachers for the instruction of foreigners; third, adoption of standards of efficiency in public evening school work for adult immigrants;

fourth, co-operation with state and federal agencies; and fifth, publication of state bulletins.

As a preliminary, personal investigations and intensive study of certain communities disclosed "dark spots" of illiteracy and "light spots" in the large industrial centers where efforts were under way to teach the foreigner English and give him some contact with American standards and ideals.

A teachers' training institute for the preparation of teachers of foreigners was organized at Albany in the fall of 1915. It was so successful that it was decided to continue it upon a permanent basis as a part of the regular curriculum of the New York state college of teachers. Similar institutes are planned for Syracuse and New York city, while training classes are in operation at Buffalo and Rochester, partly as a result of state encouragement.

Co-operation with governmental and private agencies interested in education and Americanizing the alien is already an established fact. A statement issued by the New York state department of education shows that the bureau of education of the department of the interior, the bureau of immigration and naturalization of the department of labor, and the national Americanization committee of New York city are among those whose services and material have been utilized.
Speakers for institutes have been furnished by some of these agencies.

Daddy's Bedtime

What the Moon Saw One
Fine Night.

[Adapted from Hans Christian Andersen.]

SOON as the children kept still daddy told them: "This is a story of what the moon saw one night when he looked down from his high place in the sky and told it to a little sleepy boy: 'Several years ago I happened to look into a poor little room in the city of Copenhagen. A father and a mother were both asleep, but their little son was wide awake. I saw the curtains around his bed flutter, and then I saw a merry little face peeping out.
At first I thought he was looking at his grandfather's big clock, which had a red face and a green cuckoo sitting on top. "Tick-tack, tick-tack" it said.

"But what the little boy was looking at was his mother's spinning wheel, which stood under the clock. While his mother was spinning daytimes he would stand for hours watching her. But he dared not touch the wheel, because every time he did he always got a rap upon his knuckles. But now his father and mother were sound asleep. He looked at them to make sure, and he looked at the spinning wheel. He could almost hear it whizzing. Then he put one bare little foot out of bed and then another, and soon two legs followed the feet. Bump! there he stood upon the floor. He looked once more at his parents to make sure they were fast asleep, and then in his little white nightgown he softly stole over to the wheel and began to spin. The cord flew off the wheel, and it went faster and faster. He was a pretty picture sitting there in my moonbeams, and I kissed him on his yellow hair and blue eyes.

"Just then his mother awoke. She pulled the curtains of her bed aside and looked out. She thought she saw a brownie or something sitting at her spinning wheel. "Wake up!" she cried to her husband.

"He woke up, rubbed his eyes and looked at the busy little boy. "Why is our Bertel?" he said, going to sleep again.

"Now, all this happened years ago. But yesterday I was looking down a beautiful river in Rome, and I saw a big boat coming with blazing torches all lit in it. More boats followed it, and there was a sound of music and singing.
It was some kind of a festival. Soon I saw that in the first boat was the figure of a huge man with flowing white hair and blue eyes. He was wrapped in a greatcoat, but I soon saw he was only a statue. Then a cloud went over my face, and when it passed I saw again a poor little room in Copenhagen with a little blue eyed boy sitting in my moonlight before a spinning wheel.
The boat turned in the river and headed for a great temple, and all the people making festival shouted: "Hurrah! Hurrah for Bertel Thorwaldsen!"

"Then I knew that the little boy who liked to spin had grown to be one of the greatest sculptors the world has ever known, the moon finished his story."

girls' entertainment next Saturday is being arranged and will be published later.

President Trough made the statement the other day that there has not been a death in the Nachusa orwell for the way the children are being cared for.

The W. C. T. U. people will give a

FATHER DIED IN HUNGARY

Eichler Brothers' Sire Victim of War Circumstances.

A letter was received by Eichler Brothers of this city yesterday which told of the death of their father, Melech Eichler, of Mezo Labortz, Hungary. Mr. Eichler died April 15, but on account of the censors the letter did not reach here until yesterday.

Some time since a letter was received from the father saying he was not feeling well, and the sons think the worries incident to the European war hastened his death. The part of Hungary in which Mr. Eichler lived, although not in the war zone at present, had been in the path of battle earlier in the war. Three of his grand sons, two lads of but 17 and 18, and one married at the outbreak of the war, are in the great fight and it is thought their danger worried the grandfather. A daughter and her husband lived in the town of Mezo Labortz with the father and cared for him in his last illness. The letter telling of the death was started from Hungary May 17th, was opened by the censor, but nothing was deleted, lack of boats and regular sailing time causing the delay in the receipt of the message.

HUGHES' VOICE FAILS; CUTS OUT SPEECHES

Has to Satisfy Crowds with Handshake.

say it immediately," Mr. Hughes said. "In Detroit I took occasion to refer to the manner in which the present administration had removed from the diplomatic service some of our highly trained representatives, substituting for them men of inexperience, apparently for the purpose of discharging political debts.

"I have stood against that practice of prostituting the public service to partisan obligations without regard to the necessities of training and experience and at the expense of men who are pre-eminently fitted for the places that are coveted.

"I was told the other day of one of these recent appointees to a Latin-American republic—that when a distinguished officer of that republic was asked by an American citizen what he thought of the new representative, a man wholly without diplomatic experience, a man without fitness for the place to which he was appointed, he replied, with a significant glance, 'Well, we think about him just about as you do in America.'

Higher Standards Needed.
"We have got, in this country, to have higher standards of administration and to insist, if we are to meet the demands of the twentieth century and have the American name honored throughout the world, that we shall be represented not by job hunters, but by men who in their training and experience are qualified to represent the United States.

"In that speech at Detroit I took occasion to refer to the fact that in a very important bureau, the bureau of census, an eminent statistician, a man of conspicuous expertness and fitness for the place, had been retired, and a man had been appointed in his place without qualifications for that important technical work. You must know how important that census bureau is. In the proper collation of those statistics is furnished the opportunity for many investigators to detect important tendencies of our life. It is work that must be done expertly. Once more let me say that democracy is entitled to the very best service—not ordinary service, not passing service, but the rule of the people ought to involve the getting of the best. For all these important administrative positions.

Offers Durand Letter.
"Now, my statement that E. Dana Durand was retired, as I said, in effect, and his place given to a politician has been challenged by Secretary Redfield. Secretary Redfield telegraphed me that I was greatly misinformed. He said, 'Durand was not removed, or retired, but resigned voluntarily, unasked. I was glad to endorse him for present employment.' "Now, E. Dana Durand happens to be a professor in the University of Minnesota, and I am 'going to read the letter which he has written me today in respect to this matter.'

The great crowd on the parade grounds began to cheer and applaud, while the Republican leaders in Mr. Hughes' confidence had their faces wreathed in smiles as they knew what was coming.

"My Resignation Forced."
Mr. Hughes then read the following letter, addressed to himself:

"Dear Sir: Inasmuch as the truth of your statement in regard to change in the directorship of the census has been challenged, I think it is only fair to you that I should make this statement. My resignation as director was distinctly a 'forced' resignation. At the first conversation I had with Secretary Redfield on the subject I told him that I would, of course, resign whenever he desired, but that I hoped I might be permitted to remain, as I was much interested in the work and considered myself reasonably qualified, especially by reason of the experience already gained in the position.

"He at once told me that the administration had decided that it wanted to make a change. I believe 'to create a vacancy there,' were the words used. The next I heard about the matter was the announcement in the press that the name of my successor had been sent to the senate. I thereupon wrote out my resignation. I prefer not to be quoted, but if you consider it necessary you are at liberty to do so.

E. DANA DURAND.
St. Paul, Aug. 10.—Charles E. Hughes was compelled to abandon his plan to speak extensively at a big meeting in Minneapolis. Instead he spoke only briefly at a meeting in that city during the afternoon and then returned to St. Paul for dinner and a meeting in the evening. The huskiness which was noticeable during the nominee's Chicago speech Tuesday night increased, and his physicians advised him he must conserve his voice. Consequently the address in St. Paul was the only lengthy discourse he made during the day.

Three thousand persons greeted the nominee on his arrival here, and Governor B. A. A. Burnquist welcomed the candidate to St. Paul.
Brief stops were made en route at Winona, Red Wing, Hastings and Wabasha, where the nominee huskily thanked the crowds for their interest in the campaign. In lieu of addressing them, he went down among the people and shook hands with as many as possible before the train pulled out.

BIG RAIL STRIKE SEEMS AVERTED

Federal Mediation Is Accepted by Both Sides.

PRESIDENT HEARS THE NEWS

Representatives of Railroad Managers Call on Services of U. S. Board. Offer Is Accepted by Spokesman for Brotherhoods—Cconciliation Work Starts at Once.

New York, Aug. 10.—The threatened strike of the 400,000 railway employees of the United States was averted when the railroad brotherhoods accepted a proffer of the United States board of mediation and conciliation to mediate their differences with the railroads.

Announcement of the acceptance of the offer was made by A. B. Garretson, head of the conductors' brotherhood, after it had been delivered by G. W. W. Hanger, a member of the board, following an appeal to that body to intervene made by the National Conference of Railroad Managers.

Mr. Garretson said he had informed the board that the offer was accepted on the condition that "its good offices are promptly exercised."

The federal board, which is composed of Mr. Hanger, Martin A. Knapp and W. L. Chambers, was prepared to begin conferences with the respective sides to the controversy before night, it was understood, although at the time of Mr. Garretson's announcement the board had not been officially informed of the acceptance.

Railways Seek Mediation.

Chairman Lee, in rejecting the brotherhoods' demands and proposing mediation, made a statement in part as follows:

"After such consideration, it is our judgment that the proposals which the men have supported by their vote involve such extraordinary changes in operating methods and such radical revision in established bases of compensation as to make it apparent that there is little probability of our being able to harmonize our differences of opinion unless this result can be brought about through the federal board of mediation and conciliation, which was created to assist the parties in just such circumstances as now confront us.

"The national conferences committee of the railroads is as sincerely anxious as your committee can be to reach some amicable adjustment of the matters involved in the present controversy, but we are convinced that in the end we shall have to invoke the friendly offices of the federal board of mediation.

"It is not open to question that whatever we can do by direct negotiations we can also do just as quickly and as effectively through mediation; and experience has demonstrated that a common ground could be reached through the mediators in cases where the parties have been wholly unable to reach such common ground through direct negotiations."

Statement by Garretson.

"The federal board of mediation and conciliation has notified us," read Mr. Garretson's statement, "that it has received the request of the managers

Heard At Nations Capital

"America first and America efficient." These words are the keynote of Mr. Hughes' speech of acceptance. They emphasize his clear thinking, his far-seeing vision and his clarity of expression. They take one beyond the confusion of today and into the life of tomorrow—that of tomorrow which shall follow the conclusion of peace in Europe, when the world will take up its readjustment and when the fashion of that readjustment will determine for the United States whether we shall maintain, in any measure, the commercial and industrial supremacy which we now enjoy.

That supremacy is nothing for which we can take special credit to ourselves. It was not created by Woodrow Wilson nor is it the outgrowth of any of the policies of his party. It exists not because of, but in spite of, the Wilson administration, the democratic congress and the Underwood tariff law. It may disappear as suddenly as it came—and it will so disappear if the Wilson administration, the democratic congress and the Underwood tariff are to be retained.

If America is to remain first, America must be made efficient, efficient in legislation as well as efficient in administration, efficient in politics as well as efficient in business. That will be the task of the national government in the next four or eight years—and it is this vista which attracts the attention of Hughes. He is not looking to the fourth of March, 1917. His gaze is toward the fourth of March, 1925—when his successor will take office; and when, by the effect of the policies which he has in mind and which he will put in force in cordial co-operation with a congress of his own party, an America, first and efficient, will stand forth pre-eminent as never before.

That is Hughes' vision of his task—an alluring vision of unselfishness and patriotism. He has set it before the country; and it summons every American, and especially every efficient American, to join with Hughes in carrying the task forward to triumphant conclusion. This is a summons which every efficient American will hear and heed, Hughes will lead us all to "America first and America efficient."

conference committee to exercise its friendly offices in an effort to bring about an amicable settlement of the questions that exist between the conference committee of the managers and ourselves. Our answer was to the effect that we would accept the mediators' proffer of their friendly offices provided it was promptly exercised."

The procedure of the federal board is to meet each side separately, learn their attitude and attempt to obtain concessions from each as a basis on which a settlement can be reached when they are again brought together.

Wilson Gets the Facts.

Washington, Aug. 10.—President Wilson was advised by Secretary Wilson of developments in the threatened railroad strike. Secretary Wilson, it was said at the White House, will remain for the present in New York. So far he has not advised the president to take any formal steps in the situation. He is keeping in close touch with the members of the board of mediation and conciliation who were in New York to proffer their services at the most opportune time.

HANLY CENSORS PLATFORM

Prohibition Nominee Opposes Initiative, Referendum and Recall.

Indianapolis, Aug. 10.—Former Governor J. Frank Hanly, Prohibition candidate for the presidency of the United States, will not support one plank of the Prohibition platform at the coming election. That plank is the one endorsing the initiative, referendum and recall.

Mr. Hanly made this known in his speech of acceptance after his official notification of nomination, at his home here, by Robert H. Patton of Illinois, chairman of the Prohibition national convention which met at St. Paul.

HAS CAUSE OF HOT SPELL DOPED OUT

SOME GINK SAYS SUN IS NEARER EARTH THAN IN 125 YEARS

Those who have been suffering from heat and wondering the cause of the torture, take notice. You are just 132,000 miles nearer the sun than you have been for 125 years, according to astronomical figures. The sun travels in an immense elliptical orbit, so large that it takes 125 years to complete the circle. Approximately 125 years ago the sun occupied the same relative position to the earth as now. During half that time the sun gradually grew more distant from the earth when the return was started. Next year it will not be so warm, because the sun will be on its way going from the earth and it will be cooler.

It was just 125 years ago that President Buchanan was born. Perhaps his mother wondered all summer if the little infant would live through the hot weather.

Daddy's Bedtime

How a Mouse,
Story—A Bird and a Sausage Kept House.

[Adapted from Grimm's Fairy Tales.]

"O H, daddy, it's such a long time since we've had a story!" cried Evelyn. "Only since last night," said Jack. "Begin, daddy." So daddy told them: "Once upon a time, quite a long, long while ago, a mouse, a bird and a sausage started to keep house together. All went well with them for a long time. They lived in great comfort and prosperity, and each one was able to put some money in the bank for a rainy day. The bird's duty was to fly into the woods each day and bring back wood to burn in the kitchen stove. The mouse fetched water, and the sausage saw to the cooking.

"Now, when people are very well off they always begin to long for something new, and so it came to pass that one day when the bird flew off to get the fagots he met a fellow swallow. The first thing he did was to begin boasting about how fine his household ran. But the other swallow sneered at him for being such a simpleton, who did all the hard work, while the other two stayed at home and had a good time."

"Wasn't it fun to fly through the woods, daddy?" asked Jack. "Yes, but you see when the mouse had made the fire and fetched the water from the spring she could go to her little room and rest till it was time to set the table. The sausage had only to watch the pot and see that the food was cooked enough, and then when it was near dinner time he just threw himself into the pot, rolled in and out among the vegetables three or four times, and there they were, all seasoned, salted and buttered, ready to serve.

"Then when the swallow came home and laid his little bundle of fagots down on the hearth they all sat down and enjoyed a good meal. Often they told each other stories till bedtime. Then, full of good food, happy in friendship and ready for bed, they all slept as snug and tight as a bug in a rug.

"But after his swallow friend had told the bird what a simpleton he was the bird lay awake all that night and wondered if it was true that he was doing the biggest part of the work. You see, children, that terrible thing we call selfishness was getting a hold of him.

"So the next morning, when the mouse and the sausage woke up happy as anything, the bird refused to go to the wood and bring in his little bundle of fagots. He told the mouse and the sausage that he had been their servant long enough, that he had been a great fool to work so hard and that it was now time to make a change and arrange the work in some other way."

"What did the mouse and the sausage say, daddy?" Jack asked when daddy stopped. But daddy looked at the clock and kissed the children good night.

The Cold Bath

It may be invigorating, it may be healthful, it may be even strength giving, but I have never heard but one or two women say that the cold bath ever did them any good. On the contrary, it often does a great deal of harm. This is simply because most women do not know how to take a cold bath. They plunge into cold water while overheated and chill themselves through and through, which shocks the system and oftentimes results in a headache or something worse.

The sensible way is first to take a tepid bath and then gradually decrease the temperature by turning on cold water while the bath tub is emptying. This gives the cold bath without the shock.

In winter, people who suffer greatly from cold feet, will get relief by first washing the feet in the hottest water and then plunging them into cold water for a second and quickly donning warm hose. This remedy is known to many persons who must needs be out of doors a great deal and it seldom fails to give relief. But the cold plunge bath for women is not beneficial and should be avoided. The healthy girl may stand it for a while, or even become so accustomed to it if she takes it every day systematically that it will not harm her, otherwise she will pay the price sooner or later.

Tried Recipes

Scotch Apple Tart—Peel and core half a dozen tart apples and place in a crock in a slow oven, adding neither water nor sugar. When tender, mix in Sultana raisins, allowing a quarter of a pound to each pound of apples. Turn into a deep baking dish, sprinkle with sugar and grated lemon; cover with a top crust, pricking well to allow for the escape of steam, and bake in a quick oven. Serve with milk.

Russian Apple Pie—Peel and core eight large tart apples, put into a baking dish with a little water and bake until tender. Press thru a sieve into a large bowl, and set aside to cool. Add three quarters of a cup of sugar and the white of four or five eggs beaten stiff, with a few grains of salt, and a little lemon juice and grated peel to season.

Beat this mixture until very white and light, turn into a buttered dish and bake about twenty minutes. Serve hot with sugar and cream.—Woman's Magazine.

Eggless Corn Muffins—Mix and sift one cup granulated corn meal, one half cup flour, one fourth cup sugar, two tablespoons baking powder (level measurements), and one teaspoon salt. Add one cup milk, and two tablespoons melted butter. Bake in buttered gem pans.

Emergency Drop Muffins—Mix and sift one and one half cups pastry flour, three and one half teaspoons baking powder, and three fourths teaspoon salt. Work in three tablespoons lard, using the tips of the fingers; then add one third cup each, milk and water, mixing quickly. Drop by spoonfuls into buttered, hot iron gem pans and bake in a hot oven 15 minutes.

German Caraway Bread—Scald two cups milk and add two tablespoons butter, two tablespoons sugar, and one and one half teaspoons salt. When mixture is lukewarm add one yeast cake, dissolved in one half cup lukewarm water, two tablespoons caraway seeds and six cups rye flour. Turn on a board and knead while incorporating one and one half cups entire wheat flour. Return to bowl, cover and let rise until mixture has doubled its bulk. Shape into loaves, put in buttered bread pans, again cover, let rise and bake in a hot oven.—Modern Frisella

THE WINK

All the laws of physiology and psychology manifest themselves in the fraction of a moment it takes to wink the eye. A fortune has been saved by one man catching the furtive wink of another at a critical moment, and a girl has lost or made a home for life with it.

The wink is all things to all men. It may be honest or dishonest; leading or misleading; comic or tragic; prudent or insolent, and it can take the place of a suggestive smile or frown in a fraction of the time. The wink is often used as a danger signal. It puts a stop to heedless prurality. In the eloquent eye it may denote kindness. Exaltation egotism, vanity, pride and delight are all expressed in that curious closing or snapping of the lids.

Of such importance is the wink that it might almost be regarded as a part of a person's armor with which to fight life's battles. When one remembers the value that is attributed to it in psychological moments it might be claimed that training the lids for this purpose is excusable. One may fail to understand or catch a wink and serious damage ensue. At times it is more potent than a volley of words, and only a few have failed to avail themselves of its potency.

The wink is used by lovers; by con federates in crime; the gambler cultivates it; the business man depends upon it; the Wall Street man couldn't do without it; the old man particularly enjoys it; it is prettiest and most deadly in the mischievous eye of the girl of sixteen.

The only emotion that denies the wink a place is grief. Mischievous always invites it to take part and the man who has never winked must be a surly fellow indeed!—From Judge.

Marrying in China.

China is becoming Americanized. Though she has changed from a republic to a monarchy, in the matter of romance China has advanced about 2,000 years at one long jump. Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, the new Chinese minister who, as an orator, rivals former Senator Bailey of Texas in his younger days, gave a concrete example of China's development at the convention of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. "In the old days in China," said Dr. Koo, "marriage had to be contracted through a matchmaker, generally a menial woman, more interested in getting a share of the wedding cake than in the happiness of the participants. As a result hundreds of thousands of families were made unhappy and millions of lives ill-mated. The system was in force for centuries, because the matchmakers constantly urged that each young man or young woman, if left alone, would not know how to pick a suitable life partner for himself or herself. But the influence of modern civilization has made the people see the folly of casting their lot into the hands of a third party. Today neither the young man nor the young woman would stand any interference with his or her matrimonial venture." Are the Chinese young men and young women down-hearted? No.—Leslie's.

Reflections of a Bachelor

A good resolution for married people to make is not to be any sorrier than they can help.

If a man has a dream in the night that he's rich, the next day he wants to spend some of it.

A man may know too much to love a girl but not enough to keep her from making him tell her he does.

Anyhow a woman knows enough about mathematics to figure out how many spring bonnets her husband's annual cigar bills would buy.

A man can realize that he is better at his own job than at somebody else's and yet have no doubt he knows more than the other fellow does about his.

RUPTURE

Don't Suffer With New Discovery That Cures.

Rupture is a progressive ailment. No standing still for this dangerous affliction. You have got to get better or worse. Unfortunately the vast majority of ruptured people get worse instead of better. This is partly due to the fact that there is so very little real knowledge pertaining to rupture known to the public. Most ruptured people depend on unscientific advice and trusses that are worse than useless. It is strange that an affliction which incapacitates a man from fifty to eighty-five per cent and which is next to tuberculosis, the most prevalent disease of mankind, should be so little understood. It is only within a few years that real scientific facts have been applied to holding ruptures. From now on, ruptured people who are wise enough to quit depending on unscientific methods will get better instead of worse and a ruptured person will be as capable as one not so afflicted.

FOR THE HOUSEWIFE

Be sure that you never fill enameled pans with cold water immediately after emptying boiling water from them, or the enamel will crack and split off. If a little vinegar and a handful of salt are added to the water in which colored clothes are washed, it will be found that the color will not run, and the different shades will be made brighter.

When you wish to place a potted plant on a piece of varnished furniture, place under the pot a square pane of glass to prevent the moisture which oozes from the porous saucer of the pot from penetrating to the varnished wood. A paper or linen doily may be laid over the glass if desired.

To mend broken china successfully try the following way. Put one full tablespoon of gum arabic into one quarter of a cupful of warm water, and when dissolved add as much plaster of Paris as is needed to make a thick paste. Then apply it to the broken china at once, being very careful to match the edges well, and by placing the china in a box of sawdust while the cement is hardening, you will be able to keep it in any desired position so that the pieces are held in place until they are firmly joined.

LIVE STOCK MEN AGAINST DUNNE

DISMANTLED DAIRY FARMS A MONUMENT TO MISMANAGEMENT BY HIS COMMISSION.

TO BLAME FOR EPIDEMIC

Which Cost Illinois More Than A Million Dollars—Infected Hog Serum Caused Strong Outbreak.

When the Democratic committee on halls and speakers sends its spellbinders into the field this fall in Illinois, it is safe to venture the guess that it will be with instructions to say as little about the affairs of the Illinois live-stock commission and the terrible epidemic of the foot-and-mouth disease, as possible, for that frightful scourge among the live stock of Illinois, and its attendant effects, is still fresh in the minds of not only the farmers and stock raisers of Illinois, but among all citizens as well.

The maladministration of the department, under the direction of Gov. Edward F. Dunne's live-stock commission, is one of the political ghosts that haunt the Democratic graveyard and today points a gaunt, accusing finger at the present state officials.

It is little wonder that the Democratic spellbinders will not have much to say during the coming campaign concerning this terrible epidemic that raged a year ago, which cost the state of Illinois a cool million of dollars, to say nothing of the loss of prize herds of cattle, hogs and other live stock.

Today hundreds of stock and dairy farms in Illinois stand dismantled, a monument to the colossal mismanagement and inefficiency of a Democratic state administration.

Governor Dunne, in his mad rush to appease the well-whetted appetites of a horde of hungry Democratic office seekers, must answer to the people for the inefficiency that cost the people of this state thousands and thousands of dollars, for he appointed these incompetent job hunters to office without regard to their qualification or fitness of the men.

Governor Dunne and his followers cannot sidestep the issue. It confronts them and the people of Illinois will not be satisfied with an evasive answer.

When the foot-and-mouth disease was discovered at Niles, Mich., in 1914, why did not the state veterinarian, O. E. Dyson, go to that city and investigate?

Why did not the live-stock commission, composed of E. J. Shanley, L. F. Brown and R. M. Patterson, none of whom is an expert on live stock, take steps to prevent the shipment of diseased cattle and hogs from Niles, Mich., into the great Union Stockyards of Chicago?

If there is a state in the Union that should have been protected from this dread scourge, it is Illinois, for within its bounds are located the greatest stockyards in the world, yards where thousands upon thousands of cattle, hogs and sheep are arriving every day and being shipped to other parts of the country.

Never in the history of the state of Illinois or any other state has there been a greater display of ignorance and inefficiency than was evidenced when the state live-stock officials of Illinois permitted the foot-and-mouth disease to enter the Union stockyards, not only once, but twice. In fact, the second epidemic, as has been proved by an investigation conducted by the United States senate, emanated from the Union stockyards of Chicago.

When the disease was reported at Niles, Mich., in August, 1914, why were not Dyson, Shanley, Brown and Patterson on the alert, protecting the interests of the farmers and stock raisers of Illinois?

Were they so busily engaged in looking after Governor Dunne's political fences and running his political errands that they did not have the time to perform, at least perfunctorily, the duties of the offices to which they were appointed?

They could have prevented the shipment of cattle from the infected district at Niles to the stockyards in Chicago.

No state in the Union is so exposed to contagion as is Illinois, for in Chicago is located the great meat-packing industry, and the Union stockyards is a feeder to every state in the Union.

Not until the disease had gained a foothold in the Chicago yards and hundreds of cattle had been killed and the contagion sent to all parts of the United States, did the Illinois officials awaken, and even then their alertness was pitiful to behold.

Will Governor Dunne and his incompetent and inefficient state veterinarian and live-stock commission explain why it was that after the first great epidemic had been stamped out, after thousands of cattle had been killed, stock raisers had lost thousands of dollars, and stock farms had been wrecked, a second epidemic, having its birth at the Union Stockyards, was permitted to flourish?

Will these gentlemen be able to explain to the satisfaction of the people of Illinois why $1,100 worth of infected hog serum was kept in cold storage at the yards when the government had ordered that all this serum be destroyed?

Will they tell the people of Illinois if you have a house for rent or sale why not buy a classified for sale ad in the Evening Telegraph? We will run an ad of 25 words six times for 50 cents

Why this same hog serum, after a questionable test, was released and sold, with a resulting second epidemic?

Will United States Senator J. Hamilton Lewis, he of the crimson, silken whiskers fame, kindly tell an indignant public why he went to the front for a friend at the Union Stockyards, interceded with Secretary Houston of the department of agriculture, with the result that this infected hog serum, which caused the second epidemic of the foot-and-mouth disease, was held at the yards and later sold?

Will Governor Dunne tell the people why he ordered the killing of the herd of Mrs. Scott Durand at Crab Tree farm, Lake Bluff, Ill., when this herd was not even affected with the disease?

Governor Dunne, himself once a circuit judge, sent a note to the sheriff of the county in which this famous stock farm is located, ordering that official to ignore an injunction from the circuit court, and acting upon that order from Governor Dunne the sheriff and his deputies, after reading the missive from the state executive, shot down in cold blood a herd of 64 perfectly well, beautiful, purebred, valuable Guernsey cattle.

The manner in which this dastardly deed was performed was announced in the columns of the newspapers at the time.

Mrs. Durand and her employees were led into the house by force, and while two men, revolvers in hand, stood over them, one of the finest herds of imported cattle that ever graced an American stock farm was literally murdered.

What happened after that? What course did the highly efficient and competent officials of the state take? Were the dead bodies of the innocent cattle buried as provided by the law? Was every effort made to prevent contagion, if danger of such prevailed?

No, according to Mrs. Durand's sworn statement, it was 27 hours after the first shot was fired before the last animal was dragged a third of a mile to a ditch, the animals dumped in a heap and left, and it was 24 hours more before the authorities saw fit to bury them and take the necessary precautions against contagion.

The week previous to the wholesale slaughter of the Durand herd a little sparrow was found in one of the stalls by an inspector. Great censure followed, but a trail of alleged infected blood a third of a mile in length was later left untouched and 64 carcasses of supposedly infected animals were left in the open for two days.

Birds, squirrels, rabbits, dogs and other carriers had free access to this alleged cesspool of infection left by these highly competent officials.

Mrs. Durand is still seeking to recover compensation for the damage wrought her property. She has but little recourse because the live-stock commission of Illinois is not under bond and is wholly irresponsible, yet it has authority to kill valuable cattle at any time.

This is only one example of the results of the inefficiency of a department of Governor Dunne's administration. There were hundreds of other similar cases.

As result of the epidemic the Chicago yards were closed, there was no open market for cattle, and stock raisers were forced to ship their stock to Chicago, there to be killed.

One stock raiser at Spring Valley sent a shipment of perfectly well cattle to the Chicago yards. A Boston firm offered him a cent more a pound for his cattle than he was offered by Chicago firms, but no cattle were being shipped from the yards, and his resulting loss was enormous.

Inefficiency on the part of the state officials, appointed by a Democratic governor, had locked the barn after the horse had been stolen.

It is the same old story of Democratic inefficiency. The people of Illinois are sick and disgusted with present conditions, and they are determined to return to the good old days of Republicanism and efficiency in the administration of the national, state and local affairs.

The next Republican governor will appoint as members of the Illinois live-stock commission practical men who are identified with the live-stock interests of this state, men who are in touch with and know the needs of the farmers of Illinois, and not persons whose only claim and qualification for office is a political pull.

Under a Republican governor the farmers and live-stock producers will get the reforms in this important state department they have been praying for.

UNCLE'S SORRY PLIGHT.

"Breathes there a man?" I think there do—

Who strokes the moss upon his chin And says, says he, "Twixt me and you, If Wilson's boss, as he has been, For four year more, the Mexican Will 'get the coat' of Uncle Sam. He'll pull his whiskers, as he can, To show he doesn't care a d—n For gringo threats, which he defies. And all this wretched waiting dope, When both of Uncle's hands are tied By Woodrow's diplomatic rope.

"This policy of 'Watchful wait, We may prepare some day to fight; But not until a later date.' Has put us in a sorry plight. The greaser slaps us slick as silk, While Wilson turns our other cheek. And dips his pen again in milk To write a note and wait a week. Would that election were at hand, And we could demonstrate our views On what our stars and stripes demand By casting votes for Justice Hughes."

BACKING UP PROOF

THE KIND THAT DIXON PEOPLE CANNOT DENY

Many an earnest Dixon man or woman has publicly endorsed Doan's Kidney Pills.

Week after week, month after month, you've read their statements. Would these Dixon people recommend any medicine if it were not good?

Would they confirm and repeat their statements after years had passed?

Local proof is good evidence. Testimony confirmed years after is better evidence.

The following Dixon man's statement leaves no room for doubt.

It must convince every kindly sufferer who reads it.

If your back aches—if your kidneys are weak, profit by Mr. Walford's experience:

W. Walford, blacksmith, Peoria Ave., Dixon, says: "The kidney secretions were irregular in passage. My back ached too. I used several boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills and the pains left my back and my kidneys became regular in action." (Statement given May 21, 1912.)

NO TROUBLE SINCE

On January 21, 1915, Mr. Walford said: "I have had no kidney trouble at all in the past few years and I give the credit of my cure to Doan's Kidney Pills."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mr. Walford has twice publicly recommended. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

Tracked Down

She went by him with averted face and hostility, leaving Riley sorely puzzled. He had made it a point, ever since the first meeting, to turn the rank corner in time to see her and chat with her. A little usually, she had stopped a little while with him; sometimes, she had waited for a car. He wanted very much to see her that night, because he had determined to ask her a very personal question. She was small and slight of figure, but he had begun to realize that she was looking even more frail and slender, and that her eyes, while they smiled at him, were shadowed with something more than their own darkness.

He finished his section on time and went into the station on whose role he was listed as a plain clothes man. He found in the smoking room gray, grizzled Barton, who greeted him with a smile and the quizzical comment, "What's the matter, Sid? Worried over the state of your liver or your finances?"

Riley hung up his coat and sat down drawing out his pipe. Barton had been his mentor and friend in the business of running down undesirable personages, and Riley knew he could be trusted in a matter far different.

"The size of it is, Bart, I'm in love—yes, in love or something that seems like it. I saw a fresh guy step up to a girl at the bank corner. She was a witch of a thing, black eyes and hair—just big enough for a good armful. She turned the fellow down flat, and the way she did it won me. I hustled him off, and that's the way I got acquainted with her. You see, she works nights—cashier in Burham's Lunch—and I work during the day, so we've been stuck as far as getting together; but I could see with half an eye that we could hit things off together, if we had the chance. Tonight I didn't see her, and wondered if she was ill or something. She's been looking as if she needed a rest or—"

"Or a husband," Barton said smiling.

"Yes, a husband or somebody to look out for her. I think she's hitting the game alone—she needs another to help. I'm going to try and work it—"

The door opened and the lieutenant looked in with a pleased smile. "Here are just the men," he said to some one behind him. "Boys, the cashier at Burham's has skipped with a bunch of bills. Take hold of it, will you, and put it through?" He closed the door.

Riley sat dumb; Barton was smiling. "That's your little sweetheart, son. You ought to be a church janitor—you've got too much faith in people," Barton said, drawing on his coat.

"She's been pulling Billy's cash drawer while you've been shedding tears because she lacked protection. Ah, Sid, you'll get wise after a while."

"I don't believe she would do such a thing!" Riley said, a little aroused. Barton chuckled.

But at Burham's it was learned that she had made off with all the bills in the register, running up to about five hundred dollars. He had put them in there with a view to settling some of his bills when the collectors came in that evening. She had come to work at six o'clock, then called one of the girls to the desk, saying she was going to go out on some errand or other but she failed to come back.

When they were once more outside, Barton said to Riley, "We've got to find her. You see she did that, don't you? Sure! She's a crook—a little crook, that's all. She was probably pretty and all that, but—you can never tell!"

"Now, I imagine that she has a room somewhere in the cheaper part of the city, but we've got to get after her another way. If you don't want to try it with me, why will you fix it, Sid?" "I'm with you," was the quiet answer.

"Do you know that fellow who spoke to her? Billy says there's a chap been hanging around her. He may—"

"I have no idea where to find him—"

"And Billy has no idea who the chap is. All we can do is to look up her old place; she may be there, but I doubt it."

A half hour later Barton drew Riley into a corner near a small store, and pointed out a slight figure going down the dingy tenement steps like a frightened thing.

Riley started. That looks like her. What do you want me to do?" Barton said, "I'll follow—"

He hesitated—"no, you keep on her trail. It may not be her, and I'll go up and see what I can get wind of upstairs. We want to choke up the holes."

Riley started on after the slight form. It was an easy matter to follow her, for the crowds gathered on the sidewalk covered him and he simulated the sloppy, careless swagger of a West Side sport.

As he followed he thought. It was a strange situation; a man trailing the girl he loved. There was no doubt in his mind, after a little distance, but that he was on the right track. She had probably gone back after something, and they had arrived just in time to catch her leaving.

She turned and went up a broken set of steps, and in Riley came up, waited a little while, and went in softly. Keeping below her, he followed the sound of her feet, and heard a door close. He went up slowly. He had her caged. He hesitated a little outside of the door, half in mind of turning away, and lying to Barton; but that would never do. He knocked on the door.

Silence answered him and he knocked again. No answer following, he put his weight against it, and it began to yield. There was the sound of quick steps, a broken word and it opened. He stepped in and closed it back of him.

Like a wild bird she stood in the center of the room, as if ready for flight; and she said just one word—"You!"

Her eyes were frightened and despairing. "I have come for the money you stole from Burham's—or you didn't?" he said, with sudden fierce hope.

"I did," she said. "I wanted things—I needed them—and he didn't pay enough for me to live. I was desperate, and I wouldn't do—some things."

He watched her in silence. There was no appeal, no pleading in her voice; she spoke in a breathless, eager way, as if she were glad just to speak. "Don't misjudge me; I never did such a thing or even thought it before; but I was tired—"

As she swayed he caught her, she tried to release herself from his arms. But he held her tightly, lifted her and quietly sat down, holding her still.

"Listen, little girl, I'm wise. I was planning to speak to you and offer my aid, tonight, but you didn't come. Now I'm still ready to offer it, and I can protect you."

The tense rigidity of her body eased in his arms, and she drew a long quivering breath, such as a child does as its weeping ceases.

"Have you got the money?" "Yes, every cent of it. It's done up over there; I couldn't use it; I was going to send it back," she whispered.

He glanced at the table and saw what she said was true.

"I went over to my old place, and gave my landlady the last of my own money just before you came," she went on.

He recalled seeing her and with the thought came a memory of Barton—what would Barton think? Never mind, there was more at stake than Barton's opinion. He tightened his arms about her.

"I'm going to look out for you in the future. You come home with me tonight. Mother will look out for you. I've got to report at the office. I'll take the money and see that it gets back, and fix it up so that you are not touched. You come with me and I'll put you on the car for our section, and give you directions and a note to mother. I want you out of here, because Bar—a friend of mine might come."

Rapidly he worked and a little later, she was bidding him good-by at the car. He watched the car go, in his mind the last memory he had of her—light in her eyes and words on her lips whose meaning he could guess.

He stood irresolute. "Of all the wild stunts, Barton would say this takes the cake; but I know she loves me, I love her, and I've had proof she is true blue. But it's lonely, bucking the game of life alone," he thought to himself.

He planned to report at the station, and then plan a way to get the bills back without their being traced.

Barton was waiting for him. "Well, did you land the little crook?" he questioned.

"No," he said briefly, and started to pass Barton.

Barton caught his arm. "You say 'No' because you think she isn't a crook; but you better let me see that Burham gets the bills; perhaps I can fix things up for the girl," Barton said in his quizzical voice.

Riley gripped Barton's hand under the dusk of the porch. "Thanks, Bart," he said tensely. "Here are the bills. If you know how a—"

"I was never in love," Barton said, "but I'm a mighty good guesser, and I understand."

Skillful Treatment Horse breeding is an occupation which requires much learning and a certain farmer has a great reputation for his skill.

A neighbor of his who sought some advice on the cheap, asked the horse breeder's son one day:

"I say Tommy, when one of your father's horses is ill, what does he do?"

"Do you mean just slightly ill, or real bad?" was the lad's cautious counter question.

"Oh, seriously ill."

"Well," said the boy, "if a horse is only just a little ill, dad gives it some medicine, but if it is seriously ill he sells it."

His Last Words The following amusing passage took place between counsel and witness in a disputed will case:

"Did your father give you no parting admonition?"

"He never gave much away at any time."

"I mean what were his last words?" "They don't concern you."

"They not only concern me, sir," remarked the barrister, severely, "but they concern the whole court."

"Oh, all right," was the reply. "Father said, 'Don't have no trouble when I'm gone Jim, 'cos lawyers is the biggest thieves unhung.'"

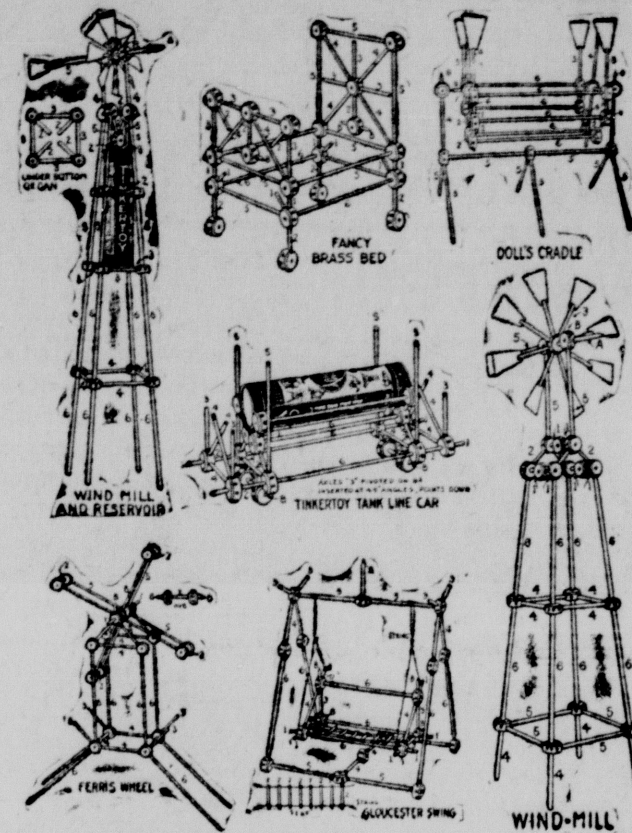

Why He Didn't Speak The defendant in a case tried in a western court had been duly convicted of theft, when it was seen, on "proving previous convictions," that he had actually been in prison at the time the theft was committed.

"Why didn't you say so?" angrily demanded the judge of the prisoner.

"Your honor," said the man apologetically, "I was afraid of prejudicing the jury against me."
